

Tackett Calls

REA Power Loan

Federal Scandal

What's going on in the federal REA offices in Washington?

A sudden loan of 10% million dollars last week-end to the Arkansas Electric Co-operative corporation to build a generating plant near Ozark, Ark., drew explosive outbursts from Congressman Boyd Tackett of the Fourth Arkansas District, Nashville, and from the Arkansas Power & Light Co.

The power company simply said it was already selling farm co-ops electricity "cheaper than they can buy it anywhere else in the United States"; that the proposed Ozark development would set up "a network of duplicating facilities"; and "if this thing goes on it will eventually destroy the Arkansas Power & Light Co."

Congressman Tackett lashed out at the 10% million-dollar loan because, while it is ostensibly to be used by a local Arkansas co-operative to build a power plant, the electricity that plant produces will be turned over to the Southwest Power Administration — a federal agency — for distribution and sale.

Tackett charges socialism — pointing out that the effect of such a move would be to ultimately nationalize the whole REA program, and perhaps the entire private electric industry along with the farm co-ops.

Tackett says the 10% million-dollar loan was made hurriedly last week-end because the Federal REA Administrator Claude Wickard fears the incoming congress will crack down on "waste of money and socialization of our economy."

There you have the charges: Tackett says it's socialism.

And the Arkansas Power & Light Co. says it means duplication of existing facilities.

Under either charge it means 10% million more dollars of federal money spent for a controversial purpose, that the taxpayers will have to bear. And if it is true that power facilities already exist in the area where the federal network is projected this has the makings of a great scandal.

This is a municipal-plant town in which I write. But we aren't crusading for government ownership of anything. Our idea is that some areas have private utilities and some have public ownership, both dating back to long ago and wise men will leave well enough alone.

I am personally acquainted with the attorney for the recipient of that 10%-million-dollar loan, the Arkansas Electric Co-operative corporation. His name is Thomas B. Fitzhugh. He managed the campaign that made the late Carl E. Bailey governor of Arkansas.

Mr. Fitzhugh has been interested in electric co-operatives for many years. I once sat in with him and Albert Graves, then mayor of Hope, and E. F. McFadden at a conference when Tom was trying to get a big REA generating plant established in north Louisiana. Our interest was the obtaining of a reserve "high line" to bolster our own municipal plant, which can't produce electricity cheaply enough for heavy industry.

The deal never came off.

We were interested in a brand new facility — not duplicating lines that already existed.

Personally I doubt that Tom Fitzhugh is duplicating existing lines with his own local co-op, the Arkansas Electric. But the connection with Southwest Power Administration might do so, indeed. The SPA is a bitterly controversial subject. Congress has turned against it time and again — as a potential enigma of federal funds to build up a network of lines paralleling those already owned by the private power companies.

Congressman Tackett has named the charge.

Tom Fitzhugh is in some unfortunate company.

And the way I feel right now I believe I'll go along with the congressman — at least until someone explains to me why Fitzhugh's local co-op can't handle that Ozark generator deal without dragging in the SPA . . . that little federal octopus which only needs a few billion dollars of the taxpayers' money to become a great big one.

New High in Cost of Living Is Assured

Washington, Nov. 29 — (AP) — A new government cost of living index, expected to reach a record high level was due today and General Motors workers hoped for a compensating three cent an hour wage increase.

Mosly traceable to the Korean war and the new defense program the trend in prices looked pretty certain to push the bureau of the labor statistics index over the record high of 174.5 set in August and September of 1948.

The index to be announced reflects the price level of six weeks ago, not today. It's expected to be at least 174.8.

General Motors workers may get a three cent hourly wage boost under terms of their labor contracts. It provides for upward or downward adjustments each three months with the upward or downward fluctuation of the index.

A slight revision of the rent factor in the complicated formula which makes up the index would give the index enough to give more than 300,000 production workers the three-cent hike.

Salaried workers also receive new pay adjustments to match that of assembly line employees.

Walter Reuther's CIO United Auto Workers also have contracts with Ford, Packard, Hudson, Studebaker and Bendix companies containing the cost of living escalator clause.

The pay rate goes up or down one cent an hour with each change of 114 points in the index. The September 15 index was 173.8.

The rent adjustment, which probably will be offered to all employees and unions having contracts similar to those in the auto industry, is the first in a general overhauling which the BLS has planned for its cost of living barometer to keep pace with present day buying habits of moderate income families. BLS Commissioner Ewan Clague said most of the rent adjustments will be made beginning in January and February.

The rent factor, however, has been noticeably out of line. GM already has agreed to an allowance of an additional 0.8 points in the index to make up for this fault in the survey.

About 800,000 to 9,000 workers are directly covered by contracts which contain an escalator clause.

Confidence Game Works, Negro Loses $411

The old confidence game was pulled on a Sparkman, Arkansas, Edward H. Perkins, here yesterday by two unidentified pals who left and took with them some $411 belonging to Perkins, city police reported.

The incident occurred here about 2 p.m. yesterday and Perkins waited for his "friends" to return and a half hours before reporting to police at 4:30 p.m.

The game is worked like this — two men get the victim's confidence. Both put up the same amount of money as the victim. One takes all the money and goes to invest it. The other stays around a while then leaves the victim to "hunt for the missing man." They leave town together with the money and the victim is left holding the bag.

Hope Featured in State Magazine of Municipalities

The City of Hope is featured with a special article and three photographs as the "Municipality of the Month" in the November issue of Arkansas Municipalities, official magazine of the Arkansas Municipal League.

The illustrations show the city hall, the post office, and a playground scene in Fair Park.

The magazine describes the development of Fair Park as a recreational project, mentions the VFW-sponsored Saturday night square dances, and tells of the more recent construction, with city help of the negro baseball park, which is also being developed as a full-fledged recreational center.

Attorneys representing the company, opponents of the rate increase, and the commission will submit written briefs before a decision is reached.

Testimony at the hearing was completed late yesterday. It started Sept. 5 and had continued at intervals since.

Opposition to Rent Control Extension

Washington, Nov. 29 — (AP) — President Truman's appeal for a stop-gap extension of the federal rent control law run up against increasing "let it die" sentiment in congress today.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), said

however that the critical turn of the war in Korea may help rush through a brief continuance of the program.

Federal rent controls expire Dec. 31 under the present law except in communities which vote to keep them in effect for another six months. Mr. Truman has asked for a 90-day extension at the current short session, pending a new study of the issue next year by the 82nd congress.

Maybank heads the senate banking committee, which arranged a closed meeting to get the views of key administration officials regarding a temporary extension. Scheduled to testify were W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the national security resources board; Alan Valentine, director of economic stabilization; and Tige Woods, who as housing expediter is in charge of the rent program.

In advance of that meeting, Senator Tobey (R-NH), a member of the committee, said he had thought earlier he might go along with an extension but now is "inclined to let the law die."

"My observation is that the majority of the committee seems to feel the same way about it."

Senators Bricker (R-Ohio) and Flanders (R-Vt.), also members of the committee, came out flatly against any extension.

On the other hand, Maybank told a reporter he thinks the committee will approve a short extension perhaps for 60 days. He said he expects the real battle to come on the senate floor, with "plenty of opposition" there to a continuance.

"I feel," said Maybank, "that the serious worsening of the situation in Korea may in the long run assure an extension of the rent law. I think it has strengthened the hand of those who want an extension."

So far no bill to meet Mr. Truman's request has been introduced in the senate. Across the capitol Rep. Spence (D-KY), chairman of the house banking committee, has introduced a 90-day extension measure. Hearings on it may start later this week.

'Phone Rate Hike Now Up to State PSC

Little Rock, Nov. 29 — (AP) — The Arkansas Public Service Commission has concluded its hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone company's application for a $4,620,000 annual rate increase in Arkansas.

Once it decides whether to give corporations full credit for their 1946-49 average income, or only 75 per cent, the committee must determine the rate of tax to impose on telephone companies.

It will be up to the state tax commission to decide the rate of tax to be imposed.

The committee hopes to have a bill ready by the end of this week. Tentative plans call for house passage next week. Whether the senate will get around to acting before the end of the year is questionable.

The house committee yesterday tentatively approved a formula for allowing interstate water, gas, electricity, telephone and pipeline companies to compute excess earnings.

'Big Six' Has Confidence of His Men — There Is No Panic When He Is Around

By HAL BOYLE

With U.S. 24th Division, Korea — It is a frontline position that has been under heavy fire. The troops are nervous. Panic rumors are spreading that the enemy is about to overwhelm them.

A jeep crawled to a halt near the command post in the valley. Out of the jeep bounces a stocky, wide-shouldered figure in a worn combat uniform. A doughboy takes one look at him and calls out:

"Why, it's the big six!"

The "big six" — Col. Richard W. Stephens, commander of the 21st infantry regiment — turns and nods cheerfully. All the doughboys nearby grin back and their tenacity begins to disappear. They have faith in their "big six."

The colonel goes into the command post and confers briefly with the young officers there. He comes out carrying a burp gun. He and a guide go alone across the hills toward the American position under heaviest fire.

When they trudge back later in the day the battlefield situation is straightened out. Or, if the enemy pressure is too heavy, the American unit is already alerted to make a calm and orderly withdrawal to a better defense line.

But there will be no panic, regardless of what the enemy does. They have faith in their "big six."

The colonel goes into the command post singing or whistling "cow music" — he is from Pierre, S. D. — or taking over military campaigns. He was chief of staff of the famous 30th infantry division in Europe during the last war and particularly enjoys re-fighting the Battle of the Bulge.

The great loves of his life are the American army and the American G.I. — whom he calls "Willie Spratt."

"The American soldier is no different than he ever was," Stephens said. "He had a lot to learn on regimental commanders. Stephens is one of only two who have remained in charge of their units throughout the entire campaign.

In the evening he likes to sit in his command post singing or whistling "cow music" — he is from Pierre, S. D. — or taking over military campaigns. He was chief of staff of the famous 30th infantry division in Europe during the last war and particularly enjoys re-fighting the Battle of the Bulge.

The great loves of his life are the American army and the American G.I. — whom he calls "Willie Spratt."

"But I'm for him. Why should you lose your own soldiers when you can kill the enemy with bombs or shells?"

It is for this attitude that the troops under him have developed a personal affection for their "big six" that is deeper than their admiration of his soldierly skill. They know he will never waste their lives because when the going is tough he is usually right there with them.

Committee May Veto Excess Profits Issue

Washington, Nov. 29 — (AP) — A key portion of the administration's $4,000,000,000 excess profits tax proposal faced the threat today of a house ways and means committee veto.

Split 12 to 12 on a test vote yesterday, the committee sought agreement today on a definition of what are "excess" profits. At issue is whether to exempt corporations from such a tax on their entire average 1946-1949 earnings or only on the first 75 per cent of the average.

The administration proposes to define excess profits as any earnings which exceed 75 per cent of the average of the best three years out of the four from 1946 through 1949. This initial three-fourth of the average would be taxed at present corporation income rates, ranging up to 45 per cent. Any profits above that would be taxed at the 75 per cent rate.

Republicans on the ways and means committee generally don't want any excess profits tax law enacted. Instead, they favor a hike in existing corporate income rates and claim it will produce as much or more than President Truman's proposal.

Yesterday's tie vote, slated for reconsideration today, demonstrated that Republicans have picked up at least two Democratic votes on the committee. It is made up of 15 Democrats and 10 Republicans. One Democrat was absent.

Once it decides whether to give corporations full credit for their 1946-49 average income, or only 75 per cent, the committee must determine the rate of tax to impose on telephone companies.

The house committee yesterday tentatively approved a formula for allowing interstate water, gas, electricity, telephone and pipeline companies to compute excess earnings.

There were no immediate reports on the fate of the U. S. 24th and South Korean (ROK) first division today for a quick United Nations showdown on the critical Korean war situation.

Without much prospect they can act effectively themselves, senators asked Secretary of Defense Marshall — or some top aide, if he can't come — to tell the armed services committee about the military outlook as a result of Chinese Communist pressure.

Russia and her satellites lag far behind in the world's production of vital oil. With 71.8 per cent of the world's oil concentrated in the Western Hemisphere, the area of next most strategic importance is the Middle East, producing 17.5 per cent. No mention was made of any use of congressional franks by Lipschutz's society for the prevention of World War III. This society, which violently and abusively advocates the Morgenthau plan for Germany, with variations, was not brought into question at all, the fact was completely ignored that its twin organization, the non-sectarian anti-Nazi league, also financed largely by Lipschutz, has boasted of its operation of a secret bureau of investigation for the purpose of planting stories in the offices of trusting employers to commit acts of betrayal and espionage. Agents of this league have boasted of the commission of acts which were crimes.

Doctor Rumely denied that his committee for constitutional government had mailed out 4 million pieces underfree postage. He put the figure at from eight to ten million pieces.

I have on my desk fifteen franked congressional envelopes obtained from the office of the society for the prevention of World War III in New York. There are six under the frank of congressmen George G. Sadowski, of Michigan.
Such envelopes bear the legend:
"Part of congressional record — free." Sadowski's propaganda, obtained in franked envelopes in the office of Lipschutz's society, inveighs against revival and rearmament of western Germany as an Anti-Soviet force. Last March 14, an agent of the FBI testified in Washington that a Communist coup which captured Henry Wallace's "progressive" party in Pennsylvania.

There are two items under the frank of congressman Arthur G.
Klein of the city of New York.
Two under the frank of congressman
John A. Blatnik, of Minnesota, and one each under the franks of A. J. Sabath, of Chicago, Abraham J. Multer, of New York, and Chet Holifield, of California. There are also two under the frank of Senator James E. Murray, of Montana, who testified as a character witness in the Lipschutz naturalization trial. This was a foul case involving charges of immoral conduct by Lipschutz, recitations of testimony, a case of alleged bribery and attacks on the credibility of two accusing witnesses on the ground that they were mentally or emotionally unqualified. Senator Murray testified that Lipschutz had given him "very valuable information" in connection with many problems before congress. Lipschutz was not a citizen at that time.

When Murray had finished he was not cross-examined by the government and Judge Conger took occasion to thank him —
"very much". This was a gratuitous gesture as bad as judge Kaufman's prejudicial, political obsequiousness to Felix Frankfurter in the Hiss trial.

Now, in shocking contrast to the Rumely case, we find that much of the propaganda placed under frank for mailing from Lipschutz's society in New York consisted of frank, disguised handouts from the society itself. It was listed in the congressional record by Murray, Klein, Multer, Sabath, Blatnik, Sadowski and Holifield.
In the record, they brazenly attributed this stuff to the society or the prevention of World War III. Then they frank it out on the pretext that it is "part of the congressional record". The rest of this back conveys the same propaganda but is not attributed to Lipschutz.

I have searched the record and the interim report of the Buchanan committee and have found not one single word of reference to Lipschutz, his society or his league, or to the use of congressional franks to promote his purposes.

The others laughed, including even Carl.

with professional appreciation. "I think I'll be seein' more of you but not much more at that."

"What say?"
It was Margie Lou's voice—faint and choked.

"She's comin' out of it," said Eddie reverently. "Thank good-

"Why?" asked Joe, looking at his sergeant surly. "If you

Cesar Brion, full of vim and confidence, predicts a koyu within

Locket Is Critical of Power Loan

The locket is critical of the Arkansas Power and Light Company's Monday criticism of the electric power administration's loan of more than $10,000,000 to the Arkansas Electric Cooperative corporation.

The loan was announced Saturday by the AEC, a so-called utility composed of three cooperatives, to construct a steam-generating plant at Texarkana and construct 344 miles of transmission lines in 25 northwest Arkansas, southern Missouri and northern Oklahoma counties.

Lockett, who entered his protest in Washington, said he particularly disliked the set-up, the loan will be possible between AEC and the power administration interchange of power and operation facilities. The SPA is the agency set up to market power from government-built hydroelectric dams.

Lockett didn't object to REA participation in constructing generating plants, Lockett added that the contract between SPA and AEC provides that the plant and lines will be constructed by REA money that will be used by SPA and all electricity produced will be sold to SPA, which will in turn sell the electrically needed back to the involved cooperatives at no lower price than the co-operatives now are paying... and it anything at higher prices.

At Pine Bluff AP and L. Vice President William Shepherd declared the loan was made "high handedly" by the REA and would enable REA to set up a network of duplicating facilities.

"All these things go on to destroy the Arkansas Power and Light company," he said.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

Backaches are a common affliction, especially among those who smoke or expose themselves to cold weather. Sometimes, however, they may lead many folks to consider the use of pads and braces, headgear and diversions. If you are in doubt about the cause of your backache, you may want to consult a doctor. He can tell you whether you have minor bladder irritations due to cold weather, dietary indiscretions, a kidney infection, or perhaps a tumor. Don't wait, try Doctor's Pill, a mild analgesic. Used successfully by millions for years. While these symptoms may not be serious, don't let them go untreated. 8 Convicts Break Jail, Search Starts

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 28—(P)—Mid-south police searched intensely today for eight convicts who shot their way to a milk truck, then crashed it through the locked gate of the Shelby County Penal farm to their freedom.

No one was hit in the flurry of gunfire that rocked the prison last night when the break started. Two guards roughed up by the men and locked in a cell suffered minor head injuries.

Farm Office manager H. R. Campbell said the ringleader of the escape was Norman E. Carter, 23, of Rockwood, Ill. He was captured near Shelby, Miss., last October after a running gunbattle with Tennessee and Mississippi officers and sentenced to ten years for robbery.

Guard H. B. Calhoun said Carter tackled him as the men were in a side room awaiting a haircut. Calhoun was slugged with his own gun and his keys stolen.

Guard J. L. Dempsey said the rest of the men swarmed over him. Eight other prisoners a waiting haircuts in the room made no attempt to escape.

Using Calhoun's keys, the men made their way to the prison yard and raced for the parked dairy truck. One of the prisoners and Guard A. B. exchanged shots while the truck was square'd around for the surge at the yard entrance gate.

The truck was smashed into the gate at top speed. It ripped open and the truck sped down the highway.

Campbell said other out-of-state men involved in the prison break were James L. Rape, 20, of Columbus, Ga., and Ralph A. Hartell, 28, of Hot Springs, Ark.

The group is the Arkansas-White-Rod basins inter-agency committee.
